These 11 Superyachts Make Bonkers Beach Clubs Their Main Attraction. Here's a Look Inside.

From cryosaunas to intricate-mosaic steam rooms and zen lounges to glass-bottomed pools, these yachts are why we love the beach club.

'Kaze' (197 feet) Philippe Briand

It's not only motoryachts where the beach-club life aquatic is being imagined on a major scale. Kaze, which translates as “wind” in Japanese, was recently unveiled by designer Philippe Briand. The 197-foot sailing yacht concept boasts a supersized beach club with unfolding bulwarks to form overwater terraces and a large platform with integrated steps that descend below the waterline for easy access to the sea. The hybrid ketch is defined by high internal volumes, a wide beam, and a connection to the outdoors. The imaginative beach club is closer in size to those found on much larger yachts, bringing a gigayacht space to a superyacht setup.
